What is Tax Freedom Day?

When you fill out your tax form - or collect your weekly pay and see all the deductions for tax it might seem that you spend more time working for the government than for yourself.

But just how much time do you spend working for the government? How long does it take to work off the burden of taxation?

In fact, the average taxpayer works for the government from New Year's Day until sometime in mid April - a date which the Tax Foundation calculates each year as TAX FREEDOM DAY! President Bush's tax cuts have made that day earlier!

Join us to celebrate with cocktails and some lively political discussion! Learn more about CRWN and about how can get involved!
